SNAME membership is important as you begin your career. Navigate your future with the assistance and support of THE professional society focused on your success. Benefits as a member include:

- If you've taken and successfully passed the Fundamentals of Engineering (FE) Examination and you are an Engineer In Training (EIT), continue your professional development by participating in your local Section activities and preparing to take the Professional Engineering license examination in the future
- Committees: Join and contribute to various committees of your interest and gain valuable recognition through active participation
- Young Professionals Program
- Opportunities to submit and present your papers: Presenters are always needed for SNAME Section programs and for the SNAME Annual Meeting Technical Program.
- Opportunities to be published in SNAME journals, Transactions, and other publications
- Network with industry leaders: This is a key resource for meeting professionals who may become potential employers, colleagues or research partners
- Career Center: The best industry resource for job seekers!
- SNAME Marine News Daily: Keep up to date with current trends in the industry with this electronic news journal
- Professional Referral Program: Sign up for the referral program and enter your area(s) of expertise. Consulting opportunities will be referred to you as they occur

Please note that upon graduation your membership will automatically be upgraded to Associate Member - at the Student Member price, for your first year following graduation.

To maintain your membership and access to SNAME benefits, you must fill out this form so that we may have the most updated contact information on you. If you are not graduating and will remain as a student, please fill out the form and provide us with your school information and new graduation date.
